

The water level was higher than the level of the river. It was the first time that the water had been so high since the last time.

The water level was higher than
the level of the river. It was
the first time that the water
had been so high since the last time.