
"TELL IT AGAIN" STORIES

By ELIZABETH THOMPSON DILLINGHAM and ADELLE POWERS EMERSON, Kindergartners in the Public Schools of Worcester, Mass. 12mo, cloth, 173 pages, illustrated, 50 cents.

No applause sounds so sweet to the child lover and story-teller as the eager "Tell it again," and it is the echo of these words which has constituted the password for the stories of this collection.

There are myths and fairy stories, stories of animals and of flowers, holiday and Bible stories, — forty-two in number. Many of them are original, some were taken from magazines, others are new adaptations of old and well-loved tales; but each one has been tried and proved in practical kindergarten experience, and, with the exception of the adaptations, the stories are to be found in no other collection. Attractive and appropriate decorations by Mr. Charles Copeland add much to the charm of the book.

RHYMES AND STORIES (Open Road Library Series)

Compiled and edited by MARION FLORENCE LANSING. 16mo, cloth, 182 pages, illustrated by CHARLES COPELAND, 35 cents.

THE charm of this little volume lies not alone in the deeds of Bo-Peep, Miss Muffet, Little Red Riding Hood, Old Mother Hubbard, and others, but also in their portraits, so correctly drawn by Mr. Charles Copeland as to be unmistakable.

HERO FOLK OF ANCIENT BRITAIN

By SARA E. WILTSE. 12mo, cloth, 128 pages, illustrated, 45 cents.

THREE old stories — Jack the Giant Killer, Tom Thumb, and Jack and the Beanstalk — told in a new way.

They differ from accepted versions in the change of emphasis. The lads who served their neighbors and loved their kings are thus given back to the children of the twentieth century by simply taking a new and better viewpoint.

Belief in giants and magic arts may die, but the personal courage of hero folk will keep these stories alive.

The artist and editor have worked together to make exact both the language and the pictures, which represent arms, dress, and domestic architecture of the times of Arthur and Alfred.
