

What dear little boys and girls they are!

I can see four boys and six girls. How many are four and six?

What are these ten little children doing?

They are holding each other by the hand. I think they have come to have their pictures taken.

Do you think you would like to wear such a long dress?

These boys and girls look happy. They are having a fine time.

The little girls do not dress this way all the time.

They were dressed this way in school one day. They were dressed like children in Holland.

These little girls are always happy, and so are the boys.
